

Eyelid Surgery Specialist Can Help You...
Look as Young as You Feel
Richard L. Anderson, M.D., FACS

Drooping upper eyelids and brows. Puffy bags and wrinkles below the eyes. "Both can make you look older and more tired than you feel, and may even interfere with your vision," reports ophthalmic surgeon Richard L. Anderson, M.D., FACS.

One of the country's leading specialists in cosmetic and reconstructive surgery of the eyelids and face, Dr. Anderson is pleased to offer a solution to both problems. "Blepharoplasty (eyelid surgery) has helped countless individuals look younger and more alert," he says. "After surgery, most patients are thrilled to discover that their upper eyelids and brows no longer droop. They are delighted that the bags under their eyes are gone and the skin is smoother."

Eyelid Surgery Pioneer

Dr. Anderson is renowned within his profession for pioneering several widely used techniques for reconstructive and cosmetic surgery of the eyelids and face. Among other procedures and innovations, he developed the lateral tarsal strip procedure for lax, droopy lids. He is also an expert in and developed the modern-day techniques for correcting deformities caused by thyroid eye disease and the surgical treatment of blepharospasm (uncontrolled muscle contraction of the eyelid).

A former chief of the division of ophthalmology/plastic surgery at the University of Iowa and the University of Utah, Dr. Anderson has trained some of the top oculoplastic surgeons in the world.

Thyroid eye disease patient
Before After

Patient with age-related changes to eyelids and mid-face
Before After

An Eye for Beauty

Cosmetic surgery was a natural career choice for Dr. Anderson. An art connoisseur as well as an accomplished surgeon, Dr. Anderson appreciates all forms of beauty. "I derive enormous satisfaction from making people look more attractive," he says. "I truly enjoy the aesthetics of facial surgery."

About Dr. Anderson

- One of the two best oculoplastic and reconstructive surgeons in America (Ophthalmology Times, 1996); editor of that publication's section on oculoplastic surgery

- One of the 400 Best Doctors in America (Good Housekeeping, 1991) (only oculoplastic surgeon named to this group)

- Author of more than 250 scientific papers, 75 book chapters, two books and 700 scientific presentations

- Fellowship-trained in ophthalmic plastic and reconstructive surgery
- Diplomate, American Board of Ophthalmology
- Fellow, American Academy of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery; Fellow, American Society of Ophthalmic Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery

Richard L. Anderson,
M.D., FACS

"If you look in the mirror and see someone who looks older than you feel, today's oculoplastic surgery can enhance your reflection," says Richard L. Anderson, M.D., FACS.

A specialist in cosmetic surgery of the eyelids and the mid-face region (brow to cheek), Dr. Anderson is highly experienced at improving the appearance of these very visible areas. In recognition of his expertise, he has been named a Fellow of the American Board of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery and an editorial board member of the American Medical Association journal Archives of Facial Plastic Surgery.

Dr. Anderson's private practice, Center for Facial Appearances, is located at 1002 East South Temple in Salt Lake City. You may contact Dr. Anderson and his staff for more information or to schedule a consultation by phoning 801-363-3355 or 877-844-FACE (toll-free). You can also email them at oculoplasticsurgery@worldnet.att.net. Please feel free to visit www.docanderson.com for an extended look at Dr. Anderson.